Winkio has released another version of Blizz-ABS featuring a prototype of the new combo system.

Winkio's rapid development of Blizz-ABS leaves the forum stunned. It seems as if he was just waiting to get his hands on the system to continue developing where Blizzard stopped. The newest version allows the user to try out the prototype of the new combo system by editing the configuration manually. Support by the configuration application is planned in a future release which should be coming soon. Download the newest version from here .
